Open Letter to the International Community 30/11/2016 Dear Ladies and Gentlemen, citizens of our world, Could you please protect and support the lawfull Greek dissidents which have defected to your countries?

During the Greek civil war, from 1944 and then, my country had become a living 'hell' because collonialists had divided the Greek people in two conflicting sides, both of which were controlled by the colonialists; both of which were covertly supported by the collonialists; and, the members of which, by propagating huge quantities of narcotics to them, became, in innumerable cases and involuntarily, nothing more than monstreous murderers who destroyed innocent civilians and who destroyed Greece for many decades.

Today, here in Greece, we are almost there, again, though in a covert and hybrid manner.

Normaly, the indigenous Greeks and the rest of the Greek citizens (nomads, etc.) we relate with each other just like two magnets having turned their opposite polarity towards one another, namely, we are almost inseparable.

During the past sixty years, the colonialists have applied the 'percentages agreement' (Churchill, Stalin) with the worst possible way. They made choices which were based on the false assumptions that, 'there is no tomorrow, therefore, there is no accountability', 'obstacles are, always, problems', 'one, should apply solutions, even bad ones, to problems, exclusively, as soon as he (subjectively) identify them (as such)', 'secrets may remain secrets for ever'. Consequently, during this long period, unthinkable choices may have been materialized. The effort which was necessary for keeping those choices secret, has grown, through the past decades, exponentially and today, it seems that, colonialists can not cope with tqhis effort any longer and they may have decided to, more, or, less, bury both, the countries and the civilians, which are the victims of those choices.

Greece is, indeed, one of the most, materialy, reach countries of the world. The troubles that we have originate, exclusively, from the irrational and impossible colonialists' endeavour to alienate themselves from their past choices.

The situation within Greece is extreme. Thousands of innocent civilians die because of this situation. There are too many, essentially normal, people in Greece, which have been influenced by the colonialists in such a way that, I would avoid approximating them no closer than six hundred meters. Among them, are, systematically, people which belong to Greek dissidents' corresponding social environments.

The prudent people of our international society, according to my opinion, should regroup as soon as possible and cooperate with each other, through safe communication channels, in order to, peacefully, persuade the colonialist that:

- In the long run, accountability is the only way for, Peace, Freedom, Cooperation and Prosperity.
- Having made mistakes does not mean the 'end of the world'. However, by indefinitely remaining engaged within a spiral of violence the 'end of the world' may come.

- The civilians, all over the world wish to enjoy, Peace, Freedom, Cooperation and even frugal, Prosperity. Therefore, it seems that they are willing to exersize indulgence.

Greek dissidents may contribute significantly in resolving the problem of the globalized consequences of colonialists', propably, having fallen in a state of senseless panic; due to their fluency in exploiting the merits of the, centuries long, Greek civilization; provided, that they shall survive, that they shall remain healthy, that they shall have, sufficient support and at least, minimum resources.

Natural Reserves & The Cooper Agreement

In a 1947 book by Dimitiri Mbatsis titled the "Heavy industry of Greece" we learn that Greece is one of the richest nations in the world in radon, aluminum, bauxite, manganese, magnesium, nickel, red mercury and lanthanum. We also learn that we have massive amounts of uranium and coal. (Keep in mind that one of the reasons for the war in Kosovo was for lignites!).

The book also maintains that there are rich deposits of oil and osmium, natural gas and that only methane reserves that exist south of Crete sufficient to initiate ten thousand years the cars on the planet. Yes you read correctly! For thousands of years....

(And yes... This was common knowledge in 1947)!

But the same book also speaks of the mysterious "Cooper Agreement".

So what is the "Cooper Agreement"? And how does an American company fit into all of this?

Well if you google the "Cooper Agreement" you won't find very much, aside from a few Greek blog posts. We attempted to find concrete information about this but nada... nothing.

So we had to read the book a bit.

The book claims that this particular agreement was made on the sidelines of several other agreements at the time, or through "secret diplomacy".

From time to time some information is leaked to the Greek press about this agreement which is said to exist at the Ministry of Industry or Development and handed down from minister to minister as a "sacred secret". According to the agreement, our former leaders agreed not to allow our seas and our land to be exploited for their natural wealth because they controlled the exploration and exploitation rights for 70 years!

After publishing this startling information, the author of the book, Dimitris Mbatsos, was mysteriously gunned down together with N. Belogianni in 1952!

Coincidence some would say... But was it?

Think real hard. The Cooper Agreement bound Greece for 70 years and its end was on December 31, 2010 when George Papandreou was in power.

The only thing that we know is that there was a special clause in this agreement.

According to various blog posts about this subject, the clause notes that if Greece did not respond negatively to the Hugh Cooper & Co. Inc. Chemical Construction Corporation at the end of the first phase of the agreement, or denounce the agreement by the date given above, then the contract would renew itself automatically for a further 25 years!

How much uranium? Well, on 23/2/96 a confidential report, published in the economic daily "Ependitis" showed some shocking results of geological measurements that were made in Northern Greece by the IGME (Hellenic Institute of Geology and Mineral Exploration). The report said that IGME had found that the area contained more than 100 TRILLION DRACHMAS in uranium deposits and other rare metals that can be used in the construction of satellites and missiles.

Today, these findings are being ignored and word has it that the Institute is going to be shut down...

And if you are thinking that the article was written by a journalist, then think again. The article was signed by seven distinguished Greek scientists and refers to the ore deposits in this area of Greece which they claim contain over 300 million tonnes of uranium concentrate. They also note that some 16 percent of other rare minerals are also found there such as rutile, lutesio and lanthanum, which have very specific uses in manufacturing missile systems as well.

The scientists also note one area in the Mount Symbol region in Kavala. According to them it is one of the largest uranium deposits INTERNATIONALLY. We need not remind all of you that when this article was published in the 90s uranium was priced at some $ 20,000 a gram!

Imagine what its value is today!

We also discovered that when the Germans occupied Greece they mapped out all these regions and after the fall of Hitler, the relevant maps and information was given to the Americans. So now we understand what their interests are in our Macedonia and Thrace... Or at least it is one of their interests.

We are certain that you are all asking yourselves how can a nation with such an immense amount of wealth (not including other comparative advantages such as our climate, the richness of the soil, the quality of the water), be looked at as being bankrupt state. We ask ourselves the same thing. But we also know that energy is power, and because we are a small nation, we need to lean on giant global players.

If you still think that the Cooper Agreement is a conspiracy... then we advise you to read the Government Gazette that was issued in the 1940s.

“The 1944 December uprising and 1946-49 civil war period infuses the present,” says the leading historian of these events, André Gerolymatos, “because there has never been a reconciliation. In France or Italy, if you fought the Nazis, you were respected in society after the war, regardless of ideology. In Greece, you found yourself fighting – or imprisoned and tortured by – the people who had collaborated with the Nazis, on British orders. There has never been a reckoning with that crime, and much of what is happening in Greece now is the result of not coming to terms with the past.”

Ο Observer του Guardian παρουσιάζει τα Δεκεμβριανά αναδεικνύοντας, μέσω απόρρητων εγγράφων και αναφορών από ιστορικούς, τον ρόλο της Βρετανίας στην ενορχήστρωση του εμφυλίου πολέμου και την «αποκατάσταση» των συνεργατών των ναζί στην Ελλάδα. Σε καμιά άλλη χώρα στην Ευρώπη οι συνεργάτες των ναζί δεν είχαν τη δυνατότητα να διεισδύσουν σε τέτοιο βαθμό στις κρατικές δομές, στο στρατό και τις δυνάμεις ασφαλείας και στο δικαστικό σώμα. Αυτός είναι και ένας από τους λόγους της αναζωπύρωσης του ναζισμού στην Ελλάδα, με πρωταγωνιστές τους απόγονους των Ταγμάτων Ασφαλείας, υπογραμμίζεται στο αφιέρωμα.
