Τα μαντάτα δεν είναι καλά - ΙοΡ Fermat project Fermat is a collaborative, open-source technology project advocating for a free, secure, decentralized and disintermediated information space in which people's interests are placed ahead of those of corporations, states and unnecessary third parties in general.

Internet of People (IoP), a technology infrastructure consisting of interconnected peer-to-peer networks hosting people's profiles, reputation and identity information. The Internet of People allows the discovery of both known and unknown people and, ultimately, enables direct device-to-device communication over the Internet and direct person-to-person interactions via person-to-person applications. The Internet of People incorporates blockchain-based native tokens, IoPs, as incentive for operators running IoP software.

The Internet of People is meant to enable the person-to-person economy, a potentially disruptive innovation resulting from disintermediation in which people hold direct control and ownership of their data, digital footprint and purchasing power.
