Currently, the contemporary British settler-colonialism actively threatens to destroy the most part of our human-kind while seemingly using as a false excuse the necessity to protect its leadership from their victimized Nations' potential revenge.

Theoretically, the European Armies they should neutralize any such threats against their corresponding population. However, this is not the case.

It should be taken for granted that, while settler-colonialism has already prevailed, all the current, conventional wars and conventional armed-conflicts they are the equivalent to the notion of the “entertainment-crimes”; and also that, the currently possessed by the colonizers, unconventional-weapons technology it makes sure that, the colonizers, in case they become military threatened, they shall not have to resort too using conventional military-weapons.

For example, the European soldiers remain totally vulnerable against real and present threats like:

- the brain-locking, remote-neural-monitoring, and geo-locating electronic brain-implants

- the organic-portals

- the human-knowledge-sharing-clouds

- the involuntary mixed-marriages

- the directed-energy (microwave) weapons

- the subjugated by the colonizers, political-leaderships

- the negative consequences of their fellow-citizens' degraded, through fluoride, etc. consumption, mentality

- the totally controlled by the colonizers, digital, landlines and wireless, communications and the Internet

- the totally controlled, in some countries, by the colonizers, food-chain, medical / pharmaceutical / economic / academic / research / judicial / political / media domains

For the above reasons, according to my opinion, there are, exclusively, two options:

1. the European Armed Forces to become dissolved and their members to support the rest of their corresponding societies in delaying the catastrophic progress of the genocidal-policies which they are being applied against them

2. The European Armed Forces to undergone a suitable reform according to the present threats.

The second option means also:

- there should be a retraining that is going to be so tough that, the half of their members is expected to quit from the Armed-Forces

- the colonizers shall urge to destroy, even through evaporating them, anyone who might be able and willing to perform such Armed Forces reform; and thus, the corresponding societies they should invent practical and effective ways for keeping them alive

Concluding, the annihilation of the European population, through either, biological-extinction, or, involuntary-transhumanization, and due to the contemporary settler-colonialism, it should be considered a real and present threat; and for neutralizing this threat, I see no other option than, the prompt reform of the European Armed Forces.
